Megacity Diaries

A journey to discover the planet's largest cities – megacities and megalopoli with over 20 million inhabitants – that continue inexorably to grow. A challenge that Italian anthropologist, director and photographer Giorgio de Finis will undertake alone, a camera on his shoulder, in search of the sensational, unique images that can sometimes capture the spirit of a place.

Having spent years investigating cities and contemporary architecture, de Finis's journey will bring him into contact with writers, artists, and architects, as well as ordinary people, in search of clues, new avenues to explore, and unusual ways of looking at of these immense, man-made concrete and steel labyrinths.
