What can a supermarket cashier, a security guard, a waiter, a web designer, a graduate student in agriculture, a receptionist, a cameraman, and a road sweeper possibly have in common? Eight very people different united by one passion: to investigate paranormal phenomena. The everyday stories of eight young people who live a normal life by day and at night become self-taught "ghostbusters". The dynamics of the group, the art of getting by with the few available resources, small discoveries and great disappointments, create a cycle of stories and characters outside the usual scheme of things. Their passion for ghosts will surely enthrall the audience. And the results of their more or less accurate research will make us jump out of our chairs... or make us smile.
